CONTEST RULES

The files (in PDF format) for the BEAC Contest are available individually. The forms are undated as they do not change from year to year. You only need to download the editors' guidelines and the specific forms you are using. To quickly find a file, click on the form you need. Once you are on the form you need, you can print it by simply going to the print menu and choosing print "selection" or you can print out the entire file. Please note that all the files you need are attached, you must mail your entries to the address below to be considered. Any entries that are e-mailed will not be considered for judging. It is also important that you first read all the rules and checklist carefully. All entries should be received by October 31, 2018 and sent to the address below. There is no need to include a digital copy of your entry(ies) this year. The BEAC Chair will scan the winners that go to the AFMS contest.

We would like to specifically bring the following to your attention:

1. Two (2) entries by the same author per category may be submitted, a total of three (3) entries per author in all categories.
2. Features is divided into two categories—Drawn Features and Written Features.
3. If an author is a member of more than one club and writes for other newsletters, please check to make sure your bulletin was the first to publish that article, poem, etc. If submitted by two clubs, the entry will be disqualified.
4. Be sure to include the applicable forms, filled out completely and attached to the entries. As a timesaver, please feel free to print out labels with the following information and affix to each entry form in the space calling for this information: bulletin name, club name, editor's name, address and e-mail. Feel free to duplicate any additional forms you may need.
5. Check that all information provided on the entry forms is correct. This information is used to produce the wording on trophies, certificates and in the Editors' Breakfast article in the EFMLS Newsletter.
6. You do not need to include an electronic copy of your entries for the 2019 Contest. The BEAC Chair will scan in your entry (entries) that are eligible to be forwarded to AFMS. AFMS rules require that all the entries sent to the national contest be sent as a hard copy of the entry and accompanied by an electronic copy.
7. A reminder concerning copyrighted bulletins and original articles, poems, drawings, etc.: copyrighted bulletins, original publications, articles and poems are eligible for both the EFMLS and AFMS contests with the understanding that permission is granted for another club to print it without obtaining permission. However, they must give credit to your newsletter and the author. It is also understood that all entries sent on for the AFMS competition may also be reproduced in booklet form for distribution to interested club newsletter editors without obtaining permission. Remember, if you have copied an article from other than a club bulletin you MUST have received permission from the publication and the author to reprint it. If you printed an article, poem, etc., from another bulletin, be sure that you have included the name of the bulletin and the date in which it was published. Note that material that has come from the internet is assumed to be copyrighted and you need permission to reproduce it—unless stated otherwise on the site. In any event, the source still needs to be noted (in case of the internet, you need the site and URL from which it came, title, author(s), etc.

8. PLEASE NOTE:

BULLETIN CATEGORIES: Choose only ONE category in the categories M, S, L and N.

Example: If you are a new editor, you cannot submit bulletins in both the New Editors category and one of the other bulletin categories. All bulletins for whichever category you choose, must meet the criteria for that category.

ALL OTHER CATEGORIES: You may submit up to three entries in each category per the following guidelines for that category.

EFMLS BULLETIN EDITORS' CONTEST GUIDELINES

The EFMLS Bulletin Editors' Contest was designed to give editors an opportunity to have their publications judged by others with similar interests. Judges' comments are meant to improve the quality of the publication, thus, resulting in better communication and a sharing of information throughout the Federation. All the categories for entry have been modified as closely as possible to meet the guidelines for the AFMS competition.

Entries may be submitted in any of the following categories:

CATEGORY M: Mini Bulletins
CATEGORY S: Small Bulletins
CATEGORY L: Large Bulletins
CATEGORY N: New Bulletins, New Editors
CATEGORY OE: Original Educational/Technical Articles and Advanced
CATEGORY ON: Original Non-Technical Articles
CATEGORY P: Original Poetry Adults and Juniors
CATEGORY FW: Written Features
CATEGORY FD: Drawn Features Adults and Juniors
CATEGORY J: Junior Articles
SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS

1. BULLETINS

The bulletin entry must be published December 2017 through October 2018 and be an original issue and not a copy. If your bulletin is distributed through electronic means, a copy of the electronic issue is permissible.

A bulletin can be entered in only one of the following categories:

CATEGORY M: Mini Bulletins – Five (5) pages or less (Includes one-page bulletins)
CATEGORY S: Small Bulletins – Six to eleven (6-11) pages
CATEGORY L: Large Bulletins – 12 to 20 pages
CATEGORY N: New Bulletins, New Editors – One to twenty (1-20) pages

For categories M, S and L use these guidelines:

- A page is defined as an 8.5" X 11" sheet with standard print (12 pitch).
- A legal size sheet (8.5" X 14") will count as 1.5 standard pages.
- Pages which have been reduced photographically will be counted based on their unreduced size.
- A sheet printed on both sides is counted as two pages.

- The cover (mailing) page is counted if it includes a “news” item, e.g. a report of an event that is not published in the newsletter or a continuation of an item in the issue. Do not count the cover page if it contains only standard masthead information that is copied for every issue. If you use an envelope or other separate mailer that has pertinent information, include it with your entry.
- No electronic copies will be accepted for judging. If you send out your newsletter electronically, you may print out copies to send with your entry forms.

For category N, use these guidelines:

- A “New Editor” is one who has not previously edited a newsletter for an EFMLS club and who began editor in the current judging year. Only one club bulletin per “new editor” can be submitted. If a “New Editor” began editing bulletins for more than one club during the year, and they are a new editor for all those bulletins, only the first club’s bulletin they edited is eligible. A person who assumes editorship from a family member cannot be considered a “New Editor.” An assistant editor or co-editor (moving up to editor) does not qualify for “New Editor” status.
- A “New Bulletin” is one for a new club, or for a club which has not previously published a bulletin.

2. BULLETIN CONTRIBUTIONS

CATEGORY OE: Original Educational/Technical Articles and Advanced – Adults

CATEGORY ON: Original Non-Technical Articles – Adults

CATEGORY J: Junior Articles –12 years of age and under, 12-17 years of age

CATEGORY P: Original Poems – Juniors and Adults

CATEGORY FW: Written Features -- Adults

CATEGORY FD: Drawn Features – Junior and Adults

CATEGORY OE: ORIGINAL EDUCATIONAL/TECHNICAL ARTICLES

Use Form OE or OE Advanced

Any original educational/technical article written by an adult member of the EFMLS affiliated club may be entered in this category. The article must have been published during the contest year and written expressly for the EFMLS club bulletin from which it was entered. An article written for the Federation newsletter is not eligible. The article must be at least a half-page in length.

Entries in this category should not be simply “reports.” A field trip report can qualify as an educational/technical article if it goes beyond reporting who went, who found what, and who got lost, i.e., a travelogue does not belong in this category. A report becomes an educational/technical article if it includes historical and/or geological information, gives complete (technical) descriptions of the material found, and/or uses research to support the educational value of the report. If research of any kind is done, a bibliography must be included. An article is also considered to be “educational” if it gives a “how-to” procedure for lapidary work, exhibiting, micromounting, etc., if it provides a description of a particular mineral or fossil; or if it is a safety study on hazardous minerals, shop practices, or field work. If an educational/technical article has been previously published in a magazines or company publication, used as information for a display case, or handout at a show, class, seminar convention/meeting or previously published on the internet, it CANNOT be considered an original article.

When filling out the cover sheet for your original educational/technical articles, pay special attention to the designation of "Advanced Author." The "Advanced Author" is one whose earnings are primarily in the earth science field or who has had writing/photos published in a commercial or professional context. If the author is an engineer, specify what kind. If he is a professional in earth sciences, state the area of expertise. In addition, a person 18 years of age, or older, who has ever won a trophy in adult articles in the AFMS competition is regarded as an "Advanced Author." This information will help the BEAC Chairman to determine the proper category wherein the entry is classified for the AFMS competition as well as if it is in the right category for the EFMLS competition.

CATEGORY ON: ORIGINAL NON-TECHNICAL ARTICLES

Use Form ON

These original articles written by an adult club member are of informational rather than technical natures. Entries in this category should not be simply "reports." Entries must be at least a half-page in length and may include such things as show critiques, program reviews, book reviews, and editorials on matters pertaining to the hobby in general. A report of a field trip, club social event, rock swap, etc. that is mainly an accounting and could have been written by anyone who was present with little personal reflection, analysis, critique by the author is not a non-technical article. If an article has been previously published in a magazine or company publication or as other public information, previously published on the internet, or the content is made up largely of quoted passages it CANNOT be considered an original article. The top three winners of this category will be sent on to the AFMS national contest. This is the same as their Written Features Category.

CATEGORY P: ORIGINAL POEMS (JUNIORS AND ADULTS)

Use Form P Adults or Form P Juniors

A poem written by a junior or an adult can be entered in this category. In the case of junior contributions, be sure to share the author's age at the top of the score sheet. Poems must be related to the hobby. In addition, there is a designation for poetry content, serious or humorous. Please note this on the heading of the score sheet.

CATEGORY FW: WRITTEN FEATURES (ADULTS)

Use Form FW

Written features are items (other than poems) in sentence form which add spice to a club's bulletin, however, does not necessary follow the form of an article. They must be original, and there is no length limitation. A possible entry might include a humorous antidote, president's column, shop hints, play on mineral names, special club contest, or club history commentary (not just copied quotes from old newsletters, the author should introduce persons input/analysis). Entries from this category are not sent on to AFMS as they have no category equal to this EFMLS category.

CATEGORY FD: DRAWN FEATURES (JUNIORS AND ADULTS)

Use Form FD Adults or FD Juniors

Junior and adult drawn features are original items that bring spice to a bulletin but do not follow a literary form. Included here are puzzles that are made up of a form (not word puzzles), cartoons, crystal structures (drawn by author and incorporated in an original application). The drawn feature should have some accompanying description/heading to add to the originality of the drawing. Drawn features must be hobby related and an original creation of the artists/author. A drawn feature may be computer generated (computer graphics, Photoshop, etc.) if it was created by the artist within the contest period. It should have a heading/description, however, the drawing predominates; has not been previously published in a magazine or company publication including another EFMLS club bulletin, has not been previously used for a display case, show handout, or class/seminar.

Use Form Junior Under 12 or Junior 12-17

Any registered junior member of a club may be submitted for original articles in this category. There are two age categories, under age 12 and 12-17, that encompass a wide range of abilities. In selecting entries, look for quality that would be expected from an average youth of that age. For example, a seven-year old (2nd grader) might be expected to write one paragraph or one-third of a page with no bibliography. The high school student should be able to research material and write an article one-half to one page or more in length with a bibliography. Minutes of a meeting/program or a report are not an original article and should not be entered in this category even if a junior member of your club writes them.

3. SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS

Use Form A

A Special Publication is rarely something that was published in a club's newsletter or bulletin. The rare exception to this may include an entire bulletin that was devoted to the passing of a club member, without any other club news, and which can reflect the subject exclusively when handed out to the public. If your club printed in the contest year a NEW, one-time only publication, such as a show program, a club information pamphlet, shop procedures, lapidary techniques and hints, anniversary issues, club history, field trip guides, etc., please send it in using Form A, clearly labeled as a "SPECIAL PUBLICATION." A club or society may enter more than one Special Publication if the subject and purpose is different. The EFMLS does not judge such publications in its contest. However, the top three, as evaluated by the BEAC chairman, will be sent on to the AFMS for their competition for Special Publications. The publication should be club and/or earth science related and the authors must be members of the club submitting the entry. Copyrighted publications that are evaluated in the top three will be submitted to AFMS with the understanding that by submitting a special publication, you are giving permission is granted to reproduce the publication(s).

If you need further information regarding what constitutes a Special Publication, please contact the BEAC Chair.

4. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

1. The three highest-scoring entries in each category judged by EFMLS will be forwarded to the AFMS for national competition (except EFMLS Written Features--Adults). Three Special Publications will also be forwarded. Entries under the category OE will be subdivided into "Advanced" and "Non-Advanced" articles and the three highest-scoring entries from each of these categories will be forwarded to the AFMS. Please note that only the BEAC Chairman can submit entries to the AFMS competition.
2. Editors and contributors who have earned a trophy in the EFMLS competition are not eligible to compete in that category until two years have lapsed. Trophy winners, however, can compete in any other EFMLS category if they have not received a trophy in that category during the previous two years. If an EFMLS trophy winner is not eligible for a particular category in the EFMLS contest and they are eligible for an AFMS trophy in that category, entries can be submitted for those categories for judging, however, they will not receive an EFMLS award. If a EFMLS trophy winner is in the two-year period of ineligibility for an EFMLS category and they have not received the trophy for that category in the past two years from AFMS, you may submit the entry clearly marked on the score sheet as "PASS THROUGH." Those entries will be sent to the AFMS competition. Following the "General Considerations" is a chart of those ineligible for EFMLS trophies for this year's contest.
3. Editors or authors who have earned a first-place trophy in AFMS competition are not again eligible for AFMS competition in that category until two years have lapsed. Trophy winners, however, are eligible to compete in any other AFMS category.
4. All applicable forms must be filled out completely and attached to the entries by the bulletin editor submitting them. IT IS IMPORTANT THAT ALL INFORMATION ON THE FORMS BE CORRECT. Information for the awards, certificates, contest write-up in the EFMLS Newsletter, and for those entries sent on for the AFMS national contest are taken from these forms.
5. All entries must have been published during the contest year and must be submitted through the club bulletin editor.
6. Only one editor per club per year will be eligible for competition. Be sure that the same person edited all submitted bulletins.

7. An article, poem or feature may be a copy from the original bulletin issue, however, the title of the newsletter, the month and the year of the issue and page number must be included on the entry's page. If necessary, send additional pages of the bulletin that have this information with the entry so this criteria is met. Information handwritten in the margins is not acceptable.
8. Each editor may submit no more than
 - a. Three (3) entries in each of Categories OE, ON, P, FW, FE, J
 - b. Two (2) entries by the same author per category, a total of three (3) entries by the same author in all categories combined.
 - c. If the editor is also an author, he/she can submit no more than two (2) entries per category, a total of three (3) entries in all categories combined excluding the bulletin category.
9. All entries will be judged in the category assigned by the submitting editor. If an entry is in the wrong category, its score will suffer because judging criteria differs among the categories. Be sure to enter in the proper category. If you are unsure, feel free to contact the BEAC chairman for clarification.
